Hash news

Welcome to the christmas edition of Rash Hag. This month's issue has a distinct international flovour to it, with news of several events across the briny. In the meantime, the major interhashional dates of 1996 - 97 are as follows:

Date	Event	Host hash
May 1996	Pan Iberian Nash Hash	Madrid H3
?? 1996	German Nash Hash	Berlin H3
April 1997	Interamericas Hash	Trinidad & Tobago H3
July 1997	Eurohash V	Brussels Manneke Pis
?? 1997	Interskandi IV	Oslo H3
Aug 1997	Nash Hash 97	Teign Valley H3

- 2. Advance warning: The QH3 Ninth Anniversary will be on 17th March. Mango will be laying the Mad March Hare Run to celebreate the event.
- 3. Even more advance warning. Run 171 will be Barritone's Birthday Bash!! There will be a birthday piss-up following the usual successful Barritone format i.e. Barbecue, home-baked bread, home-brewed beer, music, dancing and pass-the parcel like you've never played it before (possibly). This will take place on Saturday May 18th, and Run 171 will be on Sunday May 19th at the usual time. I'm thinking of a fancy dress theme of anoraks, but will let you know nearer the time.

nd so it came to pass that there were Hashers abiding in the fields.

And they knew not where they were going, for they had lost their way. But lo, the Lord took pity and said unto them, "Behold, I shew you a sign. Three blobs of flour shall you see, and you shall be on the trail to the Temple of Golden Nectar. After a long journey, a star shall appear in the East. This star shall be called the Star of Bees-ton, and there you shall find Golden liquid. When you drink of the Golden liquid, you shall speak in tongues. They will understand you not, for you will be spouting Frank nonsense. There will be much singing and rejoicing, followed by Myrrrrgh!! (Last night's curry). For unto us a pint is drawn. There will be drinking and merriment the night before, but there will be no room at the inn at closing time. However, Barritone has a stable floor for you to sleep on. If you wish to come to the piss-up on Saturday night, meet at Barritone's (4 Clifton Crescent, Attenborough) at 7 pm on Saturday Dec. 17th..

- 5. If you want to see Barritone expose his mighty organ, then I hate to inform you that this is cancelled due to the folk club closing.
- 6. At the time of going to press, the latest is that the Mickleover Christmas Event will probably be on Thursday 28th December, in Ashby De La Zouch. Please ring The Dobber on 01332 512087 to confirm this nearer the date.
- 6. Due to the Christmas Hols, the next Rash Hag won't come out until run no. 163 (January 21st). You therefore have a full seven weeks to get your write-ups etc. in .

As the Magnificent 13 RUN off into the mid-day sun, let us pause for the credits. Playing lead role is Magic (Yes - he of Harrier International fame!!), who had jetted into Long Eaton purely for this occasion (Ha Ha HA!) The supporting cast were made up of Mango, Cyranose, Barritone, Bleat, Dame Shame, Josh, Grope-Her, Doc Crippen, and Horny*. The director (GI) and the producer (Paxo) were in fine form as the entire cast sprinted off - down a very long false trail! Rewind!! At this point Josh decided to do a mad sprint along the river, the rest of us managing a hot and languid shuffle benind.

Eventually the trail left the river, and it was a short hop to a ladies' check. Which of the four ladies present was going to check it out? "Pretty Polly!" came the answer. "Who?"" At the point which will forever be known as the Parrot Check, a blue parrot was chirrupping merrily in the tree. Someone made affectionate cooing noises towards it, and frightened it off to a neighbouring tree. Meanwhile three women checked in three different directions, until in the deep distance, "On On" could be heard emanating from Mango's lips. This was where the fun really began.

The trail led us over a compost heap (Which of course was bone dry), into the gravel pits and straight into the middle of the water. "It's only up to your knees here!", cried the helpful hare, adding that if we strayed as much as a metre either side of the said point it would come up to our necks. As it was, the lovely water only missed my bollocks by a whisker. Josh wimped out and walked round the lake, the rest of us waded across.

Now it was back across Trent Meadows, where Horny found the trail and started springing ahead. After we had crossed the railway, a few urban twists led us to the middle of Long Eaton, where there was a lengthy regroup.

On On!! yelled Barritone, making old ladies tremble in their mercy. We were then treated to a tour of the back streets of Long Eaton, West Park and the canal towpath, which we followed all the way to Tamworth Road. Why? Well, our eminent hare had run out of flour, and so he had to "buy" some more from a little corner shoppe, promising to pay them later for it. To save embarrassment, he sent his son to pay the sheckels. Meanwhile, Magic was bringing up the rear with Bleat by his side. This done, it was on inn down... you've guessed it... the canal towpath!

After the barbie in the sun, Doc Crippen had the privilege of dispensing down downs to Magic (Good to see him again after a year), Paxo (Good trail), Barritone (for gerontophilia), and a few other people whose name escapes me.

Mango and Magic then proceeded to piss off to Spain, just as ?Whyne? was returning.

* disclaimer - This write up is a complete work of fiction. I can't fucking remember who was on the run!!

Hard times on the Internet

"Why The Internet Is Like A Penis," she asked. Why? Because:

- It can be up or down. It's more fun when it's up, but it makes it hard to get any real work done.
- In the long-distant past, its only purpose was to transmit information considered vital to the survival of the species. Some people still think that's the only thing it should be used for, but most folks today use it for fun most of the time.
- It has no conscience and no memory. Left to its own, it will just do the same damn dumb things it did before.
- It provides a way to interact with other people. Some people take this interaction very seriously, others treat it as a lark. Sometimes it's hard to tell what kind of person you're dealing with until it's too late.
- If you don't apply the appropriate protective measures, it can spread viruses.
- It has no brain of its own. Instead, it uses yours. If you use it too much, you'll find it becomes more and more difficult to think coherently.
- We attach an importance to it that is far greater than its actual size, and we sometimes exagerate about that.
- If you're not careful what you do with it, it can get you in big trouble.
- It has its own agenda. Somehow, no matter how good your intentions, it will warp your behavior. Later you may ask yourself "why on earth did I do that?"
- Some folks have it, some don't.
- Those who have it would be devastated if it were ever cut
- Those who don't have it may agree that it's a nifty toy. but think it's not worth the fuss that those who do have it make about it. Still, many of those who don't have it would like to try it.
- Once you've started playing with it, it's hard to stop. Some people would just play with it all day if they didn't have work to do.

O "Sir: About five years ago, I purchased a Redtailed Catfish. At the time, they seemed to be a popular fish at many aquatic stores. After doing hardly any research into their requirements, I chose Ragley, a five inch fish who I thought would be ideal for my five foot tank. I soon discovered that this fish had an incredible rate of growth, and within eight months the tank was clearly too small so, after some considerable expense, a larger tank and stand were made. He lived very happily in this tank for one year before it, too, was too small.

Luckily, I managed to obtain a disused 72x24x24 inch 'wave tank' from my local university, a bargain at £40.

"Today, just one year on, Ragley has undergone his latest move after outgrowing his tank. This time, however, there was a problem: there was no physical space in the house for a bigger tank. As he was now a member of the family, I did not want to sell him, so there was only one solution, and after the demolition of the garage and six months work, Ragley now lives in a 600 gallon 'tropical' pond with possibility for extensions as he grows. Friends and neighbours think I'm insane, but seeing him happily swimming in his pool with his teeth smiling all the time is all the proof I need. I would like this letter to be used as a warning to your readers. Yours sincerely, Mr Grimley, Coventry."

Scribe

Mornmy, its all so new to me......

Well, after searching the local papers.....libaries.....and the like, I finally meet "Paddy", a hasher trying to do it on the net, in Luxenburg, who gave me what I wanted.......what I needed.....in the form of Craig Marshall in Middlesex, who it turns out is nt satisfied with just the one HHH, sad bastard that must be. In summary, he faxed me the U.K. Hash directory....and.....oh yes.....they will be mine.....the Quorn HHH caught me eye......could it bewhere the hell is Barrow upon Soar......who is Mango? Are U.K. hashers similiar to thier southern variety? Will they have an attitude?

So being a truely despresate, deprived hasher, I venture out for a rare, chilly saturday night hashing experience, with not one but two hash groups (Mickleover incl.,who don't seem to get out much, considering the amount of children they brought along!), who all look the same to me with all thier Hashing regalia......is this a fashion Hash or what? I wan't my mommy.

The leggy American type of guy, introduced everyone.....and asked Mango (oh is that who she is!) to talk people through the flour droppings that they where about(?) to encouter. ON-ON called and off we go. We soon discover, that this could be a rather dangerous, or bonding experience, if we just flirted with H's with torchs......! don't care........|ust give me light. With no idea of where we're going, we follow blindly looking for thoses small blobs we were told about. In retrospect then, flirting, nattering, opening security gates by giving them that famous hasher glance, trying not to end up in the Soar, remembering to open all those gates and climb all those obstacles in the way, not to mention those hashers in front who seem to stop for no apparent reasonwhere'd those blobs go?

As we ventured under the Great Central railway.....everyone stops, and watchs Mango take......is no one going to stop her?sparklers and fire works out of her designer hare bag. With the help of a few cancer seekers the sparklers are alight...This is such fun, Mom, I think that I'm ok now. Freezing to death, we observe Cyranose and Mango attempt to sabotage the bridge with there fire works antics, and almost gasing everyone with the amount of smoke that they produced. ON-ON again, and of to the beer we go, pausing to watch a train to pass above us.

And so it came to pass.....that after yet another follity run, we finally arrived at our watering stop....... are they burning the place?...why are people throughing pictures of Tony Blair and John Major into the fire?...could this be how they celibrate Guy Fawkes here? It is at this point that hash shorts and his hashing hippy interrogate me, as to my existence......! may need you again now morning. After we all eventually drink the cold away......and half blinded by the bonfire of ill repute, ON-ON is called, and off back to our final watering hole we go.

For those of us who blindly followed Dobber and Penguin, enjoyed an extensive overview of the non flourery parts of Barrow, but surprisingly we found our way back......does someone know where we're going or what!

Who is that guy, who keeps running past me????

Exhausted we eventually make it back to the Navigation.....a quick count reveals that all survived, only to be rewarded, by yet another one of Mango's firework displays. So where's the beer then..... WOW, these guys are good......there own private hash drinking room.

The hash circle is tight and jolly, with Down-Down's going to,

Dobber

Did he know where he was going?

Mango

Abstaining, a sin in itself!

Leonardo

The painter of ill repute!

Dougal

How far away is your mommy, then?

too plastered from me one and only experience of Trent bitter to remember......sorry Mom.

So in conclusion then Mom, Yees, Yees, Yees, I think that I'm going to enjoy me Quorn experience.....see you when I set a run home!

O "Barry Brinksman is an ingenious but evil man," prosecutor Steven Ipsen told a Los Angeles court. "He claimed to be an alien being, recruiting for a utopian, matriarchal planet in a distant galaxy, when he was in fact a fat, bald, one-armed bespectacled pervert, living in the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas and seducing adolescent girls."

Ipsen outlined how Brinksman, 59, had committed numerous sexual offences during the summer of 1990: "He told the girls that he came from Cablell, an all-Caucasian planet ruled by a Queen Click-Clack, and that his spaceship was parked at Lake Tahoe, not far from San Francisco. He said that on Cablell everyone lived by free will, and that sexual intercourse was mental, not physical. But, before they could visit his planet, the girls first had to lower their subconscious intelligence barriers, so they would be less concerned with earthly morality, and they could only do this by drinking Cablellian Ambrosia (Chivas Regal served from Tupperware mugs) and playing strip poker with him. He also told the girls that the other problem about travelling to Cablell was that they could get diseases from intergalactic space travel. The only way to build up their immunity was to have sex with him, so they could receive IREs the antibodies needed to counter the diseases. They had to have an IRE level of 100 before they could travel through space and that would take months of

The trial ended with Brinksman receiving a 20-year jail sentence. One of his victims, now aged 18, admitted afterwards: "I don't feel like I was the smartest of people for going along with it."

• "We are a proud parish, and we are proud of our name," Dr Hugh O'Neill warned Cork County Council at a public meeting in the Bride Valley, "which is why we object so strongly to this proposal.

Apart from the environmental concerns, if Munster Crematorium Ltd are allowed to build their factory here, then Ovens will become nothing more than the butt of crematorium jokes."

Dr O'Neill was leading a delegation of 400 resident from Ovens, Co. Cork, who had signed a petition (organised by the Ovens Community Group) against the siting of Munster's first crematorium in their parish: "Already, graffiti is appearing on walls saying 'Ovens — the crem de la crem'. If building goes ahead, generations to come will think the place was called Ovens because of the crematorium. Humorous postcards will be printed. What is more, the livelihood of fruit farmers would suffer."

Scratch-n-Win Lotteries

O "Seven women shall take hold of one man in that day... Isaiah 4:1 is a prophecy of seven women going and marrying one man. Hereby note that I, Cyril Gobbley, am willing to be that man, and so fulfill Scripture. If you are a nubile sweety and desire to be one of my seven brides so that you too can help fulfill Scripture, then send a photograph to Box 7134 Saskatoon, SK, Canada, STK 4/1. My intentions are (all) most honourable. We're doing it because we love the Lord." (The Star-Phoenix (Saskatchewan) 13/9/95.

SCRATCHCARD winner June Quinn was so excited when she won £50 she forgot about her cooking and blew up the kitchen. But June, of Westerhope, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, then realised she had read the card wrong and not won a penny. June, 48, now faces a £2,000 bill for repairs to her kitchen.
