Hash news

Welcome to a Rash Hag packed with wholesome goodness and information! The following may also be of interest to you:

1. There will definitely be a Quorn Hash Camp in the Peak district (near Bakewell) next summer. As we actually hit 200 in February, we could tie it in with a "Not the 200th" celebration, or we could simply celebrate summer. We will definitely invite other hashes to this event, otherwise it won't be worth the expense or effort of organising it, though probably this will be a few local hashes.
2. Don't forget the Annual Firework Run is coming up! This will be held on the last Monday in October (Unless you want to bring it forward to the Saturday before the Sutton Bonington run, as we did last year). Please bring a firework!! I think a Hallowe'en fancy dress theme would be a good idea. There will be Gluhwein. However, I still haven't got a hare for this run (and all you have to do is lay the trail - don't worry about anything else). Offers welcomed for this run, and also October 20th, which is still free.
3. Hot news - the next Mickleover Hash is moved from Monday 9th September, probably to later in the week. Listen to the announcements in the circle today. This will be your last evening Hash in daylight this year, so why not come along!!
4. Butt End has offered to lay a boxing Day Run!!
5. It's late, and if I've forgotten to tell you something vital, tough. Please help your On Sec and tell me your venue in good time if you're laying a trail (i.e. at least a month in advance). Thank you

Next Rash Hag: Run no 187, Sunday October 6th

Deadline for write-ups and venues for your trail: Thursday October 3rd

It's all been going horribly wrong in mid-air. In Russia, a pilot made an emergency landing after his plane was engulfed by a swarm of giant moths. In China, meanwhile, a plane almost crashed after its crew locked themselves out of their cabin at 35,000 feet. Trouble started when co-pilot Wang Ho, returning from the lavatory, found he was unable to open the cabin door. After rattling the handle he was let in by Captain Ming Ha Kwak, who decided to investigate the situation personally. He duly put the plane on autopilot and, accompanied by his colleague, left the cabin and closed the door behind them. Again it refused to open, the difficulty being that this time there was no one on the other side to let them back in. Despite attacking the recalcitrant portal with a fire-axe it remained steadfastly shut, and it was only when it was charged down by a 17-stone air hostess that they were able to recover control of the plane, which had by this point gone into a tail spin. "It's funny," said a jovial Captain Kwak, "because last month I got locked in a lavatory in Tibet."

RUN NUMBER 180
MONDAY EVENING 29 JULY 96
VENUE THE RATCLIFF ARMS, BUNNY
SCRIBE ~ LIGHTNING ROD
HARES ~ TOO TUFF AND PLEASURE GNOME

Having been assured by Oriface that tonight's run started at 19:15 it came as some surprise on our arrival exactly on time to see a dozen or so hashers on the verge of departure - on time - surely not?

Correct, not on time, but then we were enlightened by Too Tuff 7pm was the scheduled off, and for being late and arguing the point scribe duties were allocated to yours truly.

The hares Too Tuff and Pleasure Gnome gave us the direction, and a steady gallop saw Oriface and Baritone arrive at the 1st check 1st (a well proportioned, uncomplicated, simple flour circle conforming to international Hash standards IHS0 9001!) Pity Miss Whiplash wasn't on this run to note.

Scribe picked up the new trail running alongside a dyke (didn't know they were allowed on hashes?) but no-one else seemed to have heard the shouts of ON ON. Hash chatter was breaking out amongst the likes of Mango, Cryanose, Big Phut and Warmers, whilst serious head down hashing was happening up front between Rock Hopper, Baritone, Sharnie and Oriface.

A well placed check on re-crossing the dyke threw the pack into confusion and only hints from Pleasure Gnome on the likely direction saw Cyranose pick up the new trail through some vicious stinging nettles.

This regrouping check took effect so that we now saw the running order changed with Mango, Egg-Cite-aballs Big Phut and Warmers trail blazing into the setting sun.

Oriface got lucky in finding the remaining checks and consequently he and Baritone both bounded back to Bunny, bollox to the rest of us.

On return to Hash HQ we found Josh and Gropher complete with excuses for not being on time and then Too Tuff called the circle Since the RA was not with us the honour was bestowed on Oriface to administer the down downs, who immediately nominated Josh for tuning up in a crap suit/tie. Next were the hares for laying an excellently crappy course, and then Baritone for running and farting like a horse and finally Egg-cite-aballs for being a poser in his fancy T-shirt.

All over then, but was it? Baritone pounced up and demanded a special down down for Too Tuff as on the last Hash he had spread rumours that the John Thompson Pub closed at 2pm. Consequently everyone left and Baritone had to drink on his own until 3pm. Since no poem was bestowed on the hash, yet again, by Hash Bard Oriface, beer re-fuelling ended a good £1.50 worth of summer evening hashing.

Not only is the number 181 a palindromic number, it also reads the same upside down as the right way up. The reason for this should become apparent in a moment.

The journey of 35 miles was completed in 35 minutes, as a result of Butt End attempting to break the land speed record. However, we needn't have worried, as Pleasure Gnome had to know whether all the Archers' cows would be milked that morning before starting the hash. The trail first led us past a toffee house and onto a drive, where a check by a field full of sheep proved too big a temptation to resist. At this point the hare had provided a diversion due to a particularly well-tackled bull in the field, and when we re-joined the trail again Barritone found a trail leading backwards - or was it forwards? From there it was on back until he was back on, and the trail led through cornfields, lush green pasture, beside rippling streams etc. before we picked up a long farm track. This is where Jetslag, who claimed to know the Area backwards, decided to stretch his legs a bit. At the other end of the track were three notices describing what dire things could befall you if you dared to continue. Bummer, meanwhile, had realised that Doc Crippen had set the same trail 3 years ago... backwards. Back at the pub, meanwhile, was Carol... a harriette who lived in the village and had seen some flour. Reaching the staggering conclusion that if there's a trail it must lead to a Hash somewhere followed it...back to the pub.

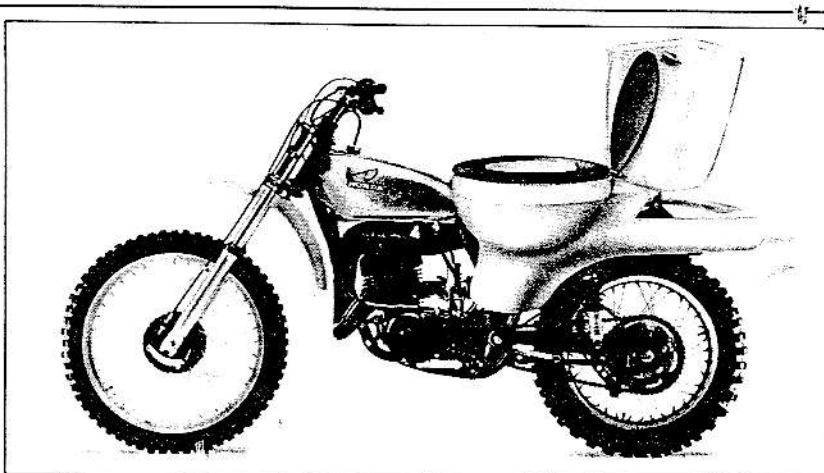

The down downs were dispensed by stand-in RA Bummer, who requested the hare to step in backwards. Other recipients included Ffrigin (on a fleeting visit from Berlin!), Barritone (broken bicycle), Pleasure Gnome, because we never actually found out whether the cows got milked or not, and Ian, who will forever more be known as Jetslag. Add the huge cobs, good beer and sweltering sunshine it was altogether a great hash..

A man picked up a beautiful woman in a pub and went back to her flat. At about midnight he decided he should go home to his wife, but first he obtained a piece of chalk from his pick up and stuck it behind his ear. As soon as he got home he was greeted with "And where do you think you've been until now?" from his wife.

"I pick up this real dish and went back to her place."

"You lying devil. I can see that chalk behind your ear. You've been playing darts again!"

New from Professor Krankovski!!!

Human waste is one of the world's richest sources of methane. Yet what do we do with it? We throw it away. Literally. This nation could be self-sufficient in crude within a year if we obey one simple rule. Save it. The British have always had it in them to cope in a crisis and British know-how leads the world in methane conversion technology.

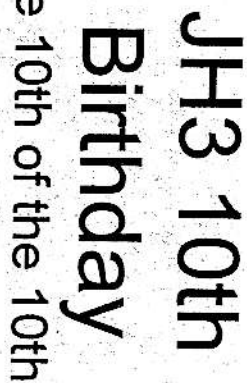

Yours to enjoy in the privacy of your own road.

And now you can share in this revolution with your own PO-PED.

PO-PED

It's not been a good week for those of a plump disposition. In Stoke-on-Trent, the unfortunately named PMT bus company sacked 17-stone driver Sandra Johnson for being overweight. "Our motto is fitness, not fatness," said a PMT spokesperson. In America, meanwhile, authorities have closed a third of New York's beaches because lifeguards are too fat to do their jobs properly. "Lifeguard corpulence is seriously jeopardising the lives of bathers," explained an official press release. In one case, a man almost drowned because a lifeguard got wedged in a life-ring and was unable to swim to his aid, whilst in another a woman suffered a broken shoulder when a 22-stone lifesaver fell out of a pedallo on top of her. Most dramatic of all was an incident in which an observation tower collapsed under the weight of its attendant guard, thereby diverting attention away from the screams of a swimmer with cramp, who subsequently drowned. "There is a definite correlation between obesity and bad lifeguarding," opined one expert. "Which is why you don't get fatties on Baywatch."

Bankrobbers are becoming increasingly subtle in their use of disguise. In Madrid, a thief concealed his identity by the simple ruse of removing his spectacles. Unfortunately he walked into a pillar whilst entering the bank and knocked himself unconscious. Still more innovative was the disguise adopted by two bank robbers in Washington, who spurned facemasks in favour of lemon juice. Wayne Joblet, 35, and Stanley Liverpot, 26, had planned their robbery down to the last detail, the only problem being how to circumvent the security cameras. "We were at our wits' end," explained Stanley, "when a friend told us that lemon juice blurred security film. It was like a revelation." Suitably armed with an industrial-sized lemon squeezer, the daring duo subsequently burst into the bank. Unfortunately, however, they misconstrued their friend's advice and rather than squirting the citrus juice onto the cameras! rubbed it onto each other's faces, rendering them blind and easy prey for security staff. "Next time we'll use our Little Mermaid masks," said Wayne.

Announcing the Friday-Sunday, 06-08.09.1996 A.D.

The Zürich HashHouse Harriers are proud to host this year's Swiss national HHH event, to be held on the rocky shores of the lake of Zürich.

Cow chugging brews and staring at sunbathers in western Europe for a truly psychedelic time.

Join us in one of the last non-European countries in western Europe for a truly psychedelic time.

cow grazing as Chainsaw's

What has Zurich and its environs got to offer? Alpine quaintness, mountain views, freezing lakes, water sports, weather (liquid - if you're lucky), a diversity of cows and sheep for those studs among you, tosa suits and ties, a pub or two, and hills, hills and more hills (none of these wimpy Dutch kind.)

conv jogging

Same cow

Cow braking

that do we have to offer? A pub crawl thru the dark, dank, dens of the Zürich gnomes on Friday night, the obligatory run on Saturday afternoon (yes, we also have wimps in Zürich), Saturday dinner followed by the usual piss-up, Sunday breakfast, and a "over" run at Sunday noon. And of course, all the beer that you can guzzle (and even a touch of wine for those of alternate

The critical details:

- Any good, hundred soul, with the time and energy to party - Haathouse style. (Note: Members of the Rompagein HHHH are required to submit a detailed psychological profile.)
- Where: Just outside of the thriving metropolis of Wollerau, a mere 25 km South-east of the Zürich city limits along the Zürichsee. That's about 45 minutes from the Zürich main train station by public transit (S2/S8 from Zürich HB to Wädenswil/Richterswil).
- Accommodation: Massenaalger
- 10-bed sleeping rooms with group facilities (bring a sleeping bag, linens and ear plugs)
 - Camping available (outside)
 - Assistance with local hotel alternatives for those of a more genteel nature can be provided.
- Due to the constraints of our venue, we are required to limit the number of participants to 70. Accommodation requests will be assigned on a first-come, first-served basis.
- How much: sFr. 120 (if registration received postmarked by 06.08.1996, thereafter sFr. 140. No registration without payment).

Hustlers Hash Hotline - 01908 562696

A doctor, an architect, and a computer scientist were arguing about whose profession was the oldest. In the course of their arguments, they got all the way back to the Garden of Eden, whereupon the doctor said, "The medical profession is clearly the oldest, because Eve was made from Adam's rib, as the story goes, and that was a simply incredible surgical feat."

The architect did not agree. He said, "But if you look at the Garden itself, in the beginning there was chaos and void, and out of that, the Garden and the world were created. So God must have been an architect."

The computer scientist, who had listened to all of this said, "Yes, but where do you think the chaos came from?"

TEIGN VALLEY PEDAL BASHERS

Invite you to the first UK Nash Bash Weekend on the occasion of their 250th Ride

Friday 20th - Sunday 22nd September 1996

Venue: Blatchford Farm, Lower Ashton, Teign Valley

What it's going to cost: £6.00 per person

What do you get:

Camping on Friday and Saturday night, plus entrance into the Teign Valley Vintage Rally and The Lower Ashton Beer Festival, use of their facilities, ie bogs and inexpensive food - topped off with a gig on Saturday night. Two superb Bash rides - Saturday at 2.30pm and Sunday at 10.30am - lovely rural location and hopefully good weather too. Bring the Kids with you for £3 each. We'll even run a Hash on Sunday for Horrors and non-Bashers.

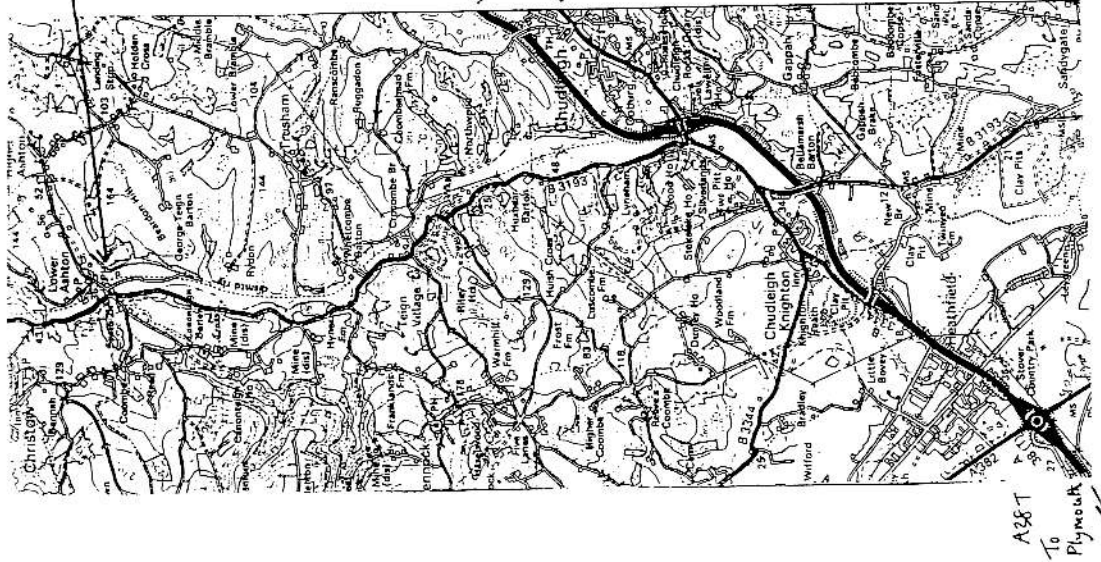

So that's about it. We decided to couple it up with these other events because it relieves us of any organisational worries or financial risk, especially when we have absolutely no idea how the concept of a UK Nash Bash might be received or supported. What we can promise you is a really memorable Teign Valley Bashing weekend in the most glorious countryside. So please come on down to Devon.

T-Shirt - we will also produce a UK Nash Bash T-Shirt for £5 should there be sufficient demand. So please indicate below your requirements (if any).

Send cheques with this slip made payable to TVPB to: John Potts,
99 Kingsdown Crescent, Dawlish, Devon EX7 0HD. Queries - phone
01626 865159 - Pottsie, or 01626 773972 - Unda or Poppy.

Name Home Bash/Hash
No. places @ £6
Juniors U16 @ £3 Contact Telephone No.
Address

T-Shirt(s) YES/NO E/L L M S (please tick)

Here's Lower Ashton near Christow. It's very easy to get to only 5 miles up the B3193 - leave the A38 Exeter to Plymouth Trunk Rd at Chudleigh. The A38 connects directly to the end of the M5 at Exeter

The camping site is fairly basic and will take caravans as well as tents.

Bring your own food or eat at the local pub(s) or even more cheaply at the Rally Showground next door.

The Beer festival will feature a host of brewers. Last year they had over 30 - a veritable paradise for ale drinkers.

The planned Bash Bike Trails contain plenty of good off road riding - so remember to bring your Bikes!!

Even if you haven't got a Bike there will be plenty going on - including a Hash run - so it's still worth coming on.

It's been a summer of mixed fortunes for nude people on tennis courts. Melissa Johnson, 23, became the darling of Wimbledon after streaking across the men's final of this year's championship. Somewhat less glamorous were the antics of American Kurt Bluebottle, who spent seven hours trapped in a tennis net whilst on holiday in Antigua. After a night of heavy drinking, an inebriated Mr Bluebottle, 32, had clambered into the hotel tennis court where, for reasons best known to himself, he had removed his clothes and endeavoured to jump over the net. "I caught my foot in it," he explained, "and the next thing I knew I was completely wrapped up." Furious struggling only exacerbated the situation, with the enmeshed merry-maker ending with his bottom in the air and his head wedged in his armpit, in which position he was discovered, unconscious, the next morning by a group of German schoolgirls who had come for a tennis lesson. "He said he was Andre Agassi's brother," said 13-year-old Ilsa Schmidt, "but we didn't believe him."

The world of litigation continues to throw up a selection of outlandish cases. In Israel, a woman is suing a weatherman for forecasting sunshine on a day that turned out to be rainy, resulting in her wearing summer clothes and catching a cold. In Seville, meanwhile, a man is taking a fortune teller to court after she promised him a life of exceptional health and then broke his skull with a crystal ball. Pablo Salvatore, 27, had emerged from his session with Madame Homunculus feeling on top of the world. "I had a wonderful tarot reading," he enthused. "She said I'd always be lucky and never have a day of ill health in my life." Her predictions proved remarkably true for the two minutes it took Mr Salvatore to descend from her third-floor flat and walk round the corner. Unfortunately, as he passed beneath her window, the clumsy clairvoyant accidentally knocked her crystal ball off the window-ledge, causing it to fall 30 feet onto her customer's head, fracturing his cranium. "She doesn't know it yet," said a bandaged Mr Salvatore, "But I'm suing her."
