Well, what a day! The Quorn really pulled out all the stops on this one. What monsoon conditions, steam engine rides, fancy dress and one of the best ON-ONS in ages, it really was a day to remember! Good to see so many new faces as well as our old favourites ( with one or two notable exceptions!).

The pack gathered in Sileby (Zupada's place) and took to the amphibious vehicles to beat the flood waters to make rendezvous at Rothley Station. It was at this point the hashers discovered a train ride circa 1950 was in store-much jollity and gay banter followed to the amusement of the passengers looking in horror at QH3 assembled on the platform in costumes from Spiderman to Frank Spencer, Dr Kildare to Indiana Jones!

Once at Loughborough Central the pack rushed off the train in search of the trail, cunningly marked in chalk (no flour etc allowed in Loughborough Town). No surprises here as Idiana Jones lead the way across raging rapids (large puddle near 3M) with clowns, fairies & vicars in hot pursuit! Soon the pack arrived at Loughborough's Christmas tree in the town centre to sing the Hash Carol 'QH3, QH3 (to the tune of Jingle Bells). Who should be standing there, but Pils-too late to run! Nice to see you!

Anyway, Howling winds and the threat of even more rain forced a rapid departure to part 2 of the trail! A quick meander around the back streets and lo! back on the train for Rothley.

Next stop, flooded Cossington and it's WATER, water everywhere (more's the pity!) and time for voluntary dunking-or in yours truly's case-a forced immersion in the muddied waters quite a experience (let's just say I was glad to change shortly afterwards!).

Then it was ON ON ON! Great food and lots to drink for the now (nearly) normally attired gathering back at Zupada's pad.
