A run at the northern edge of the Quorn hash world attended by a small select group in weather befitting the northern location. A grey wet day where if the rain had been snow we would have understood why it felt so cold. No end of Archers to wait for this week, instead it was Barritone who was unusually late. A torrid trip from Beeston on his bike saw him getting lost and having a puncture.

The B Team was missing Pleasure Gnome but they kept up with the FRBs because of some good checks. The first holding check was declared a ladies check and like going to the loo all the harriettes went off down the same wrong path together. At least it gave Creamy and Tom a chance to get rid of their stale bread and feed the geese in Mill Lakes Country Park. It was here the we lost Dave (NHN) who was only on his second Quorn run but like others was confused by the check flour sequence of three blobs, cross, two blobs, cross, and lots more blobs.

Malteaser and Skidmarks became front runners but jet-lag and a week of first class pampering ensured Skidmarks slowly filtered back to be with the B Team.

Creamy was elected stand-in, deputy, second reserve RA which was a good move because she let us have our circle in the warmth of the pub. Down-downs went to:

1. Clementine the hare who, despite some irregular flour laying and miserable weather, got thanked for a good run.
2. Dave for his Mutley impression and getting lost.
3. Barritone for his late arrival, waterproofed with green anorak and upsetting many of the local dogs.
4. Skidmarks, birthday girl and jet-setter.
