

Run No. 417: 05.01.03 from The Moon and Bell, Loughborough

Hares – Josh + Chocolate legs!

Scribe - Skids

The Run

We arrived late thanks to Durex, but the run started with a clear blue sky and lots of frost. A good turnout with returnees, virgins and new comers. It was a long run for some; short for others and some only made the pub. We gathered after the hash in the warmth of the pub to comments :-

Too Tuf – clever of the hare to use white flour on a snowy dog.

Chocy – No Comment!

Sybil Snott – self-descriptive – snotty run/walk/crawl/sleep

Graham (no hash name) – Don't eat yellow snow.....Why?

Wallington – Not another F checkback again!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Malti – At the first checkback I got Skids lost (as normal)

Durex – What is a Malti + Skids Shortcut?

A run of 2 halves each over 45 mins long.

Chicki – Well at least we turned up!!!

Blow – It was cold....it was wet....but at least we were here on time
....to a trail that existed!!!

Rockhopper- the hare was walking on water, it was that cold!

Tom – Mum asked Josh if it was a long run? To which he replied
“the ground is hard”. Mum then asked if he was a politician with the ability to answer q's.

Creamy – I asked Multi if it was OK to let Snowy off in the cemetery and she replied ‘Yes but don't let him dig up the bones!’

Beer & Loathing - It was a long run and I can't understand why the hare wants to take credit for it being a lovely day(well! if he walks on water he can!). The trail was eccentrically marked lots of flour in some places none in others.

Down Downs

Beer & Loathing – can't remember something about food.

Skids & Multi – getting lost

Blow – Anal Retentive – something about storing Xmas decorations in his back passage

Wallington – Dicky bow for little Dick.

Josh/Chocy – Hares on first run of the Year

Sybil Snott - for interfering with the above

Premature Ejaculation (PE) - christening
